

Rocky Mountain Outlook

COMMENTARY	22
EVENTS	33
MOUNTAIN GUIDE	49
SPORTS	39
LOCAL CLASSIFIED	69

Worker welcome

exemptions under the controversial Temporary Foreign Worker program.

"We are pleased that the government has provided clarification on the 'seasonal' industries that will be eligible to hire TFWs to work for up to 180 days," said Darren Reeder, executive director of Banff and Lake Louise Hospitality Association.

"The announcement is a positive development for many of our tourism industry partners who have

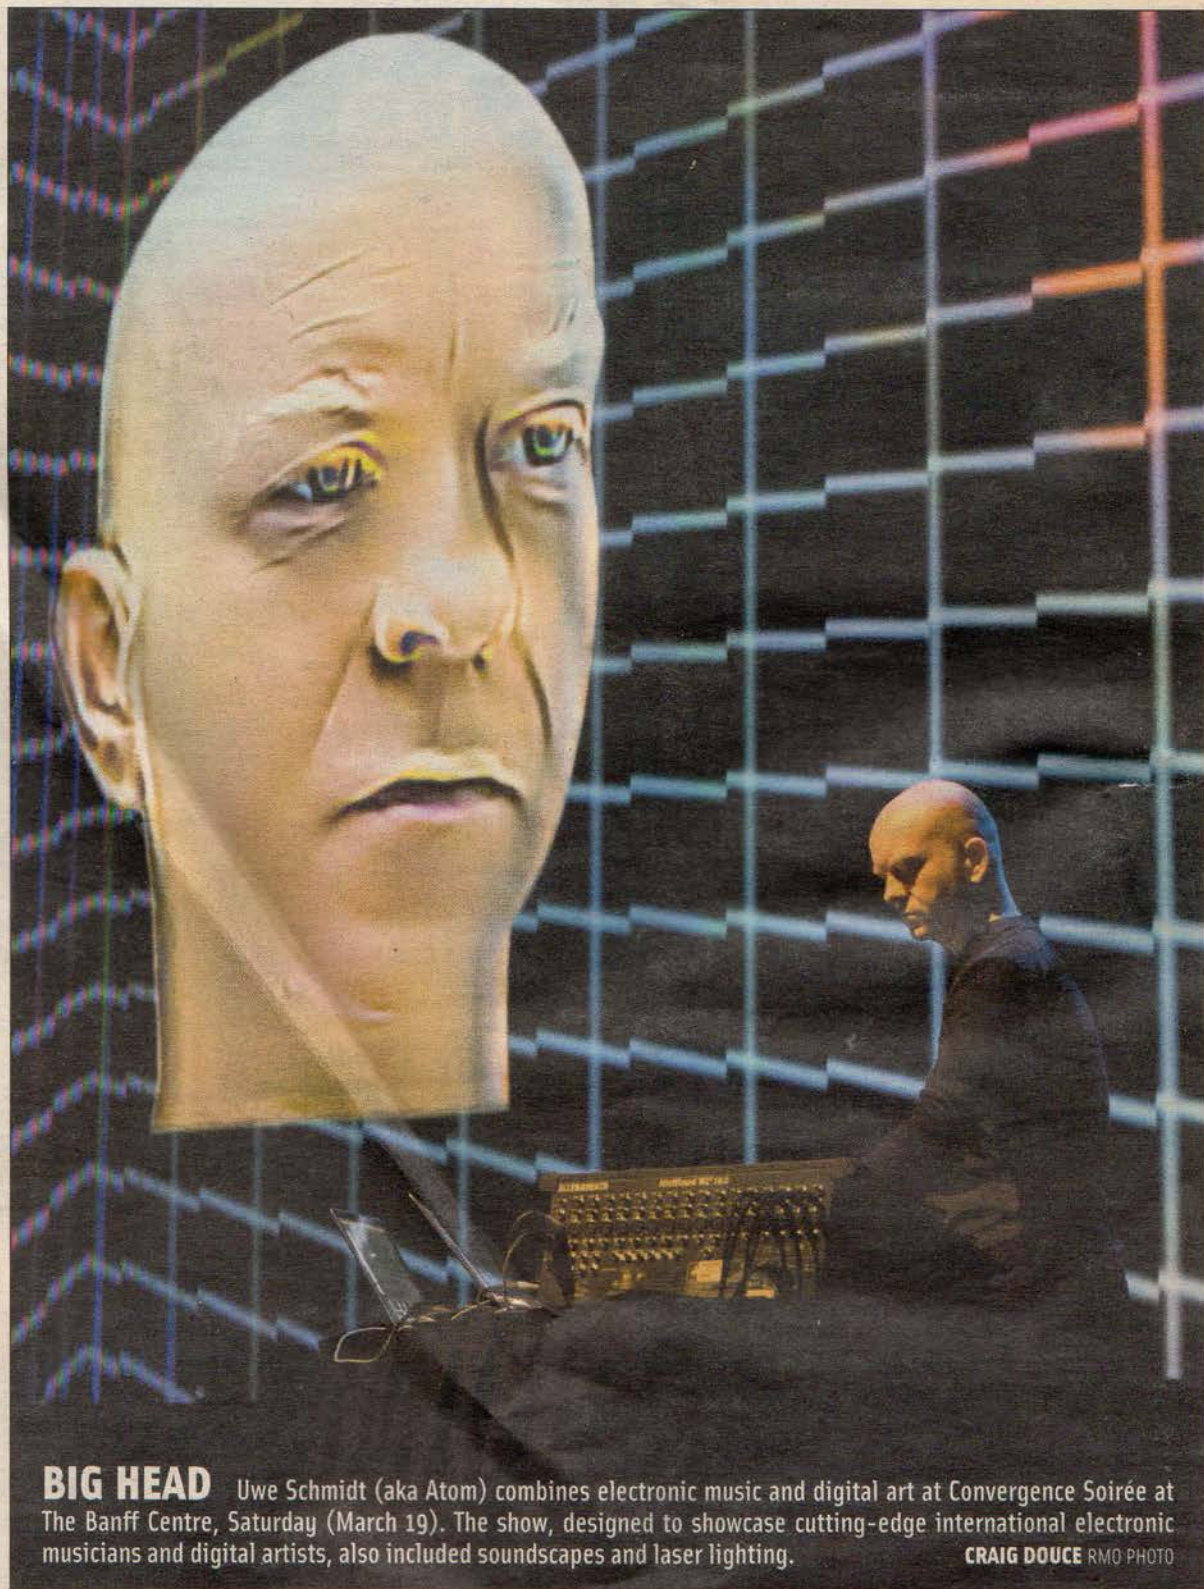

TFW CONT'D ON PAGE 6

Environmental plans called for first and acknowledged the hard work and difficult task it is to draft a statutory plan as important as the municipal development plan. But Dalman said Canmore continues to face the challenges it encountered in the past of ensuring connectivity across the landscape for wildlife.

"Today we are nearly fully occupying this critical link in wildlife movement, not just for the Bow Valley, but for North America," he said. "We have a responsibility to ensure it is protected and functional."

MDP CONT'D ON PAGE 7

BIG HEAD Uwe Schmidt (aka Atom) combines electronic music and digital art at Convergence Soirée at The Banff Centre, Saturday (March 19). The show, designed to showcase cutting-edge international electronic musicians and digital artists, also included soundscapes and laser lighting.

CRAIG DOUCE RMO PHOTO